

500 Futures

Ending homelessness
tomorrow begins
with what we do for children today.

40TH ANNIVERSARY

Help secure 500 futures free of homelessness

Your support today will prevent homelessness tomorrow

170,000 children in England – including 3,900 in Westminster – are growing up in temporary accommodation. Childhood poverty, trauma and housing instability are the biggest risk factors for adult homelessness. Early intervention is how the cycle is broken.

The Cardinal Hume Centre has supported young people, children and families facing homelessness since 1986. With your help, we could reach 500 more people every year, increasing our impact from 1300 to 1800 people helped annually.

To expand our advice, employment and therapeutic services, we must raise £1.2 million (£400,000 per year for three years).

By joining the 500 Futures Campaign, you will:

- Prevent homelessness before it begins
- Lift families out of poverty

- Improve children's health, education and wellbeing
- Break cycles of trauma and repeated homelessness
- Support an effective early intervention model which can be used nationally

A child without a stable home is a child whose future is at risk. Protect a child today, build a future free from homelessness tomorrow.
